RAISING THE CURTAIN: CONVERSATIONS AT THE GEFFEN PLAYHOUSE
LAUNCHES WITH DISCUSSION OF ROBERT O'HARA'S BARBECUE
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 19.

NEW FREE SERIES IS PRESENTED BY PARTICIPANT MEDIA AND MODERATED BY JOHN HORN, HOST OF KPCC'S "THE FRAME"

LOS ANGELES (September 14, 2016) - The Geffen Playhouse announced today a new and innovative public program, Raising the Curtain: Conversations at the Geffen Playhouse, inviting audiences to join storytellers, artists, and subject-matter experts to explore the social issues and cultural themes raised by the plays on the Geffen's stages this season.

Presented with the generous support of Participant Media, the series launches this fall with conversations on the themes raised by the first three plays of the Geffen's season: Barbecue, The Model Apartment, and Icebergs. John Horn, award-winning host of KPCC's "The Frame" will moderate the series. Admission is free, and audiences must RSVP to conversations@geffenplayhouse.org. All attendees will receive the opportunity to purchase discount tickets for future performances of the plays featured at each session.

"We are extremely excited about this new series and the opportunity to engage audiences in discussions of the pressing issues raised in our plays," said Geffen Playhouse Executive Director Gil Cates, Jr. "In addition to providing stimulating context for the work on our stages, these conversations promote the cultural and personal relevance of theater today. Our thanks to Participant Media, KPCC, and the participating artists and audiences."

Launching on Monday, September 19, at 8:00pm in the Gil Cates Theater at the Geffen Playhouse, the first conversation in the series centers around Obie and Helen Hayes Award winning playwright Robert O'Hara's Barbecue and its themes of race, class, family, media representation, cultural appropriation and more. Running through Sunday, October 16 in The Gil Cates Theater, this marks the west coast premiere of the politically thoughtful and thought-provoking comedy which Hilton Als of The New Yorker described as "...my idea of an American classic, or the kind of classic we need."

Barbecue director, Tony, Drama Desk, Drama League and Olivier Award nominee Colman Domingo will be among the featured panelists for the September 19th inaugural session. In addition to his directorial credits Off Broadway and regionally, Domingo is a Lortel and Obie Award winning playwright whose works include Dot, Wild with Happy and A Boy and His Soul. On television, he has starred as Strand in AMC's Fear the Walking Dead and co-stars in the upcoming Fox Searchlight film The Birth of a Nation.
